

Woody Ridge

Date

Wed, 12/23/2020 - 18:25

Activity

Skiing

Seems like you guys aren't exactly hurting for Cooke obs these days, but for what it's worth I skied Woody Ridge today and found similar conditions as what everyone else has been reporting. HS 165cm ~9600', ECTP-13 on 1-3mm FC 45 cm down. One very large collapse in the flats approaching this morning, and a few more isolated wumphs higher up. I also noticed a relatively small (D 1.5-2, R1?) avalanche on the East face of Republic across the valley, unfortunately I didn't have my telephoto lens so I couldn't get a decent picture.

Region

Cooke City

Observer Name

Henry Coppolillo