Activity

Snowmobiling

Friends and I rode the Lionhead area yesterday and on Monday. We were on the continental divide just west of the lionhead loop trail. We saw 5 or 6 pretty good sized avalanches. They were all on slopes that faced east. I got pictures but they are pretty poor cause my phone is cheap. The red lines in the photos represent crowns. One picture I tried to show the crown and the toe and marked the picture. I circled in blue the ridge we could see these avalanches from on the snowmobile map.
