Activity

Snowmobiling

Rode Sawtell past two days. Very wide spread stout slab formed under the new snow that's fallen. Heavy winds have scoured new snow away in places and deposited pillows in other aspects. Dug a pit with ECTX results but did not two layers of concern. One thin buried facet layer about 60cm down and the thick melt freeze about 80cm down. HS was 160 on a SE aspect about 8300.
