

This natural slide occurred just north of Ross Peak in the Bridger Range. It was seen on Friday morning (22nd). The wide propagating indicates an obvious weak layer. The most unusual part about this avalanche is the slope does not appear to be wind loaded. Photo GNFAC

Advisory Region
Bridger Range

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Mon Mar 25, 2013

